

TAXATION, GRADUATE CERTIFICATE

Being a tax professional is a challenging and rewarding career. Tax professionals apply an extensive set of rules to financial information organized by accountants in a variety of organizations. Understanding and applying tax rules is a skill set that is needed in certified public accounting (CPA) firms, law firms, corporations, tax-exempt organizations, and in branches of government. The rules are ever evolving and changing, as are the tools utilized to perform functions such as tax return preparation and tax impact modeling. Considering the global business and tax implications that exist in many organizations today, you have the platform to utilize these skills to provide significant value in any organization.

Obtaining a tax certificate will provide you with advanced training that will allow issue recognition in transactions you are involved with. That may be as a consultant with a CPA or law firm, as part of an organization's internal financial staff, or as an auditor with a government agency. The courses involved with the certificate will train you to research and apply the rules to the issues identified, with sound factual and legal reasoning resulting in a supportable conclusion. You will further be prepared to apply those conclusions to positions on tax returns or in transaction modeling projects where mitigating the tax impact is essential.

Obtaining a tax certificate will also be a signal to your employer—or prospective employers—that you have a willingness to obtain rigorous training that would be difficult to achieve elsewhere, and a passion to apply that training. The Lubar College of Business tax certificate program offers 6 classes—5 required to obtain the certificate—taught by a combination of professors that bring significant research and teaching credentials and instructors from the business community that bring real-world experience to the classroom.

Candidates for the tax certificate should possess good analytical skills, have a desire to apply complex rules to a given set of facts, and be intellectually satisfied with conclusions that, while supportable, may not be absolute. If you are currently working in a CPA firm, law firm, the financial department of a business that has tax compliance requirements, or in a government revenue department, please consider enrolling in the Lubar College of Business Graduate Tax Certificate program. For admission information, please see next page.
