

EDUCATIONAL PSYCHOLOGY, MS: EDUCATIONAL STATISTICS AND MEASUREMENT

Many fields and employers need professionals who have expertise in statistics and measurement to make sense of data and use data to answer research questions.

UWM's Department of Educational Psychology offers a few options for students who are interested in specializing in educational statistics and measurement. The Master's program will provide students with the knowledge necessary to execute research and evaluate and critique existing research — a valuable asset whether you're planning to put your skills to use in the workforce right away or go on to doctoral studies.

Why Choose Our MS Program?

Ranked #22 in Best Master's in Assessment and Measurement degree programs of 2022 by Intelligent.com (<https://www.intelligent.com/best-masters-in-assessment-and-measurement-degree-programs/>)

You'll be taught and mentored by faculty who specialize in this field, and after completing your master's studies you'll be ready to:

- Analyze and interpret data
- Design and build assessment instruments
- Design research projects and address research questions using quantitative data
- Conduct program evaluations
