

KINESIOLOGY, BS

Are you fascinated by the science of human movement? Then a major in Kinesiology might be for you. You'll join an exciting department where nationally known faculty are working to deepen our understanding of physical activity. You'll delve into topics such as anatomy and physiology, biomechanics, psychosocial aspects of sport/exercise, motor development and more. You'll graduate ready to apply your knowledge and skills in professional settings ranging from health care to sports to industry.

Curious about Kinesiology, "the science that moves us"? We offer two introductory courses that students can take to learn more about Kinesiology.

- KIN 200: Introduction to Kinesiology. In KIN 200, you will explore the science of human movement through different lenses. For example, you will study popular exercise/fitness trends, such as CrossFit, and explore the physiological, biomechanical, psychological, sociological, and motor behavior aspects of the trend. KIN 200 is an exciting course in which you will learn important scientific principles and research underlying the field of kinesiology.
- KIN 230: Health Aspects of Exercise and Nutrition (NS GER). KIN 230 introduces you to key concepts related to personal physical fitness and healthy eating. If you are interested in learning about and improving your own fitness and eating behaviors, this is a great class to take. *KIN 230 is an online course.

Interested in Physical Therapy or Athletic Training? If you are interested in pursuing a career in Physical Therapy or Athletic Training, the Kinesiology major is a great choice as you will learn the scientific foundations of human movement and be well-prepared for admission into a professional program. Academic advisors (<https://uwm.edu/healthsciences/advising/>) in the College of Health Sciences can help you put together a plan of study so that you complete the prerequisites for admission into the UWM Doctor of Physical Therapy (<https://uwm.edu/healthsciences/academics/dr-physical-therapy/>) (DPT) or Master of Science in Athletic Training (<https://uwm.edu/healthsciences/academics/ms-athletic-training/>) (MSAT) programs. As a Kinesiology major, you can select a pre-physical therapy or pre-athletic training designation.

Undergraduate students may opt to take advantage of the UWM Accelerated BS Kinesiology / MS Athletic Training program (<https://uwm.edu/healthsciences/academics/accelerated-kinesiology-athletic-training/>). This program is for high performing students and entails completing three years as a Kinesiology undergraduate student and then moving into the MSAT program as a graduate student. At the end of the fourth year (the first in the MSAT program), the BS Kinesiology degree is conferred. Upon successful completion of years four and five, students earn the MS in Athletic Training.

Interested in transferring into the BS Kinesiology program from another school? We welcome transfer students! To learn about how to transfer credits from another school to UWM and the BS Kinesiology program, visit the College of Health Sciences transfer page (<https://uwm.edu/healthsciences/students/future/transfer/>) and UWM transfer page (<https://uwm.edu/undergrad-admission/apply/transfer/>).
