

CRIMINAL JUSTICE AND CRIMINOLOGY

Study the criminal justice system through legal and political lenses, examining the nature, causes and impact of crime. Students learn through courses taught by experienced faculty, and in fieldwork opportunities, to improve their listening, speaking, writing, analytical and evaluative skills. They graduate prepared to work in law enforcement, corrections and the courts.

Undergraduate Certificate Program in Forensic Sciences

The Criminal Justice Program in the Helen Bader School of Social Welfare cooperates with the Departments of Anthropology and Chemistry in the College of Letters and Science and the Biomedical Sciences Program in the College of Health Sciences to offer studies in forensic sciences. Certificates can be earned in Death Investigation, Forensic Sciences, and Forensic Toxicology.
